Committee to Judge Park View Contest Makes Its First

The lawn, garden and rear yard competition to be conducted this summer under the auspices of the Park View Citizens' Association, in which prizes aggregating at least $150 are to be awarded to the Park View householders whose premises are maintained in the handsomest condition during the summer, was formally opened yesterday afternoon, when a preliminary survey of lawns, yards and gardens of the Park View section was made.

Park View section was made.

The committee making the survey was composed of Commissioner Brownlow, William F. Gude, William E. Shannon, Horace E. George, James C. Hoyle, Charlton M. Clark, Alex. H. Benz, John G. McGrath and F. G. Heaton, representing The Star. The châirman of the committee, R. W. Burnside, was unable to make the trip yesterday on the preliminary survey, and Commissioner Newman, also a member of the committee, was out of the city.

Further Inspections to Be Made.

Further inspections and surveys are to be made during the summer, and premises are to be scored on points of neatness, general attractiveness, utility, etc. The competition is to close in September, when cash prizes are to be awarded to those householders whose premises have scored the highest aggregate of points during the summer. No formal entries are to be made in the competition, which is open to any and all householders in the entire Park View section.

Results of Explorations of Twenty-Five Parties Set Forth by Smithsonian Institution.

The Smithsonian Institution has just issued a pamphlet on its explorations and field work, covering the results of twenty-five parties in ten differend foreign countries and twenty-two states of the Union. The several ac counts deal with many scientific in vestigations carried on directly by the institution and its branches or in cooperation with other institutions, and re well illustrated from photographs taken in the field

Dr. Charles D. Walcott, secretary o the institution, continued his work in paleontology and geology in the Rocky mountain region, particularly in the Yellowstone Park area and in the Belt mountains. Dr. Walcott's party obtained nearly five tons of specimens, from which will be prepared a special Yellowstone Park exhibit in the museum. Among the mineral specimens collected are a number of interesting calcite rosettes. Many-excellent photographs also were obtained by the party. Altogether they covered more than 675 miles with the camp outfit in the park, and then proceeded down the West Gallatin River canyon to Deep Creek canyon, seventeen miles east of Townsend, Mont., where the pre-Cambrian sections of the Big Belt mountains are shown. About two tons of tains are shown. About two tons of fossil specimens were collected in this region before the late September storms stopped field work for the sea-ments. Dr. Ales Hrdlicka studied the extent of the full blood and mixed blood Chippewa Indians, on the White Earth and Leech Lake reservations in Minnesota, in an effort to assist the Department of Justice in settling the claims of these Indians.

The pamphlet contains accounts of the many lines of research relating to the American Indian conducted by the bureau of American ethnology, much of which already has been reported in the special publications of the bureau. F. W. Hodge, ethnologist-in-charge, visited Nacoochee Mound, Ga., and proved it to be no more than an earth work of the Cherokees, and not of Spanish origin. Dr. J. Walter Fewkes studied the prehistoric remains in Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado, obtaining some excellent specimens and completing extensive repairs. Reports of work accomplished by Messrs. Franchenberg, Michelson, Hewitt, La Flesche, Swanton and Harrington, as well as the publications and collections of Miss Frances Densmore, are recorded.
